LEAP OF FAITH: National BMX Champion Mike Mullen takes a jump over some brave Castle Manor students.

Thrills and spills from BMX champ

A GROUP of willing pupils got more than they bargained for when they volunteered to take part in a bike stunt.

Year 8 pupils from Castle Manor eagerly lined up on the ground to play the part of a prop when National BMX Champion Mike Mullen came to visit the school.

The sportsman visited the academy as part of the Sky Sports Living for Sport programme and topped off his classroom talk with an interactive demonstration.

PE teacher Tony Dixon was enthusiastic about the visit and what it meant for the students to see a sportsman in action.

He said: "The students have had a really engaging session. They've all tried their best, had a go at riding and learnt some tips from a professional."

Mick makes a mint on charity journey

A CANCER survivor has raised more than £2,000 for Macmillan after taking to his pedals and travelling from London to Paris by bike.

Mick Pilling, 60, of Bishops Close, Haverhill, took on the gruelling 500km journey in memory of his mum, dad and twin brother who all battled with the disease.

The 60-year-old, who works in the bowel screening team at Addenbrooke's, also suffered with head and neck cancer before being given the all-clear in 2010.

Setting off from London on July 3, Mick, along with around 140 fellow-riders, began the journey to Paris which ended on July 6 at the Eiffel Tower.

He said: "I'm exhausted but it was brilliant. We met in a park four miles from the end and rode in as one big group. We caused havoc going around roundabouts and down the Champs-Elysees."

Mick has raised more than £2,000 for Macmillan from this year's cycling efforts alone, but the 60-year-old has done the challenge before and also climbed the Three Peaks.

When all his money comes in, his total for the cancer charity will sit between £6,500 and £6,750.

He said: "It is undoubtedly one of the best charities to raise money for."

The Addenbrooke's worker is now ready for a year off after his hard work, but is determined to continue with fundraising for a charity that has provided constant support to him and his family.

We're all going on a summer holiday ... in school time!

A PRE-SCHOOL have taken advantage of the scorching weather and staged a week of summer holidays. Little Wonders Pre-School, on Chalkestone Way, are enjoying a jam-packed week of graduations to primary school and holiday play. With the help of Samuel Ward pupils Megan Robson and Shannon Elmsdon, an aeroplane and the seaside have been painted onto the playground and the little travellers are responsible for their own passports and tickets. The children have been encouraged to play airports and travel agents - but they can cool off from the sun in the paddling pool after the hard work. The pre-school are also working hard to raise money to develop land given to them by Westfield Primary School. The entire area is in need of renovation and the Little Wonders team would appreciate a donation or sponsorship. Contact the school on 01440 710926.

You've got a friend in the library, so join in!

WHILE libraries across the country face closure in light of council cuts, Haverhill Library has launched a new scheme to keep the facility alive and kicking. The Friends of Haverhill Library has been formed by a group of people who are passionate about ensuring the future of their local library, on Camps Road. The town's group, which currently has around a dozen members, is chaired by Borough Councillor for Haverhill East, Karen Richardson. Mrs Richardson said: "It's a lovely thing to be involved in because the libraries are so important to us and they are such a major community hub that we can't afford to lose." The Friends group will be responsible for fundraising to develop and support their library as well as communicating with residents and users to find out what they would like to see. So far, the Friends of Haverhill Library have had two meetings and have big plans in place for the future. The borough councillor said: "We are using each person's skills to help the local library. We are still working on it because it's very early days." It is hoped that the group will work in partnership with Suffolk Libraries to ensure that the library stays an integral part of the community. Suffolk Libraries aims to create a community group to support each facility across the county, with 20 libraries already joined up. Many more across the county are in the process of becoming members.

A Suffolk Libraries spokesman said: "The library service is still supported by the county council. "In a very challenging period for all public services, all the county's libraries have remained open with the same opening hours and remain vital community resources, offering a range of services and activities apart from book lending." For more information contact Haverhill Library on 01440 702638.

Get the best of the police in a meeting with Commissioner

THE people of Haverhill will get the chance to meet Suffolk's Police and Crime Commissioner face to face in a public meeting. Tim Passmore is set to be the guest speaker at this month's thebestof Haverhill meeting, taking place on July 18 at The Days Inn, Haverhill. Since his election in November, Mr

Passmore has spent the last seven months visiting towns across the county to get down to the heart of Suffolk residents' concerns. At the meeting, he will focus on the concerns of Haverhill and outline the priorities of policing in the town, at a county level. Attendees will also be given the chance to ask questions. Elaine Carr, owner of thebestof Haverhill, said: "An elected Police and Crime Commissioner is something new. "I think many people are wondering just what the role involves and how much influence the Commissioner has on what actually happens with policing and crime."

Big push makes a mountain of food for the hungry

VOLUNTEERS truly made a difference to the hungry in Haverhill after a 12 hour collection at the town's Tesco.

The store, on Cangle Road, held an event for The Food Bank on Friday, July 5, and Saturday, July 6.

After working hard from 9am until 9pm the workers had raised more than a tonne of donations.

Generous shoppers helped out too by giving as much or as little as they could to the cause to raise 1.9 tonnes.

Tesco plan to hold further collections this winter to try and top their target.

Tracey Lewis, Haverhill Tesco store Manager, said: "The response from the community for this collection was fantastic, an event to be proud of, which we only hope to better at the next collection for The Foodbank on November 30 and December 1."

The event was also attended by Haverhill's Town Mayor Cllr Roger André, who joined in with the big push to do as much as possible.

Henry Wilson, of The Food Bank, said: "Once again the support from the people of Haverhill has been overwhelming."

"On Friday alone we collected just under 1.1 tonnes of food. On behalf of Haverhill Foodbank and the people we help, a massive thank you and to Claire and her team at Tesco for the welcome we received."

The store has previously taken part in food drives, and the last one raised an outstanding 1.8 tonnes of groceries for the needy.

Some groceries needed include long-life milk, sugar, tea bags and coffee as well as soup, pasta sauce and tinned tomatoes.

The collection was organised by Tesco Haverhill's Community Champion, Claire Bowden.

Claire said: "This is a phenomenal amount and everybody involved has been completely blown away."

FEEDING THOSE IN NEED: Claire Bowden Tesco Community Champion, Ann Merrigan Foodbank Operations Manager, Pauline Andre, Tracey Lewis, Tesco Store Manager, Mayor Roger Andre, Janette Last, Bryan Aldus, Jack Bowden and Kirsty Cunningham.

Ex-hotel boss admits fraud

A FORMER deputy manager of a Haverhill Hotel has pleaded guilty to swindling his employers out of more than £5,000.

Taro Rawles, 41, of Vetch Walk, Haverhill, previously held the post of deputy manager at Days Inn.

He admitted fraud at Chelmsford Crown Court.

The ex-manager was released on bail after Judge Anthony Goldstaub QC adjourned sentencing until August 5.

Rawles used his position at the hotel to refund £5051.57 worth of transactions onto a personal credit card.

The 41-year-old was charged with fraud by abuse of position in May.

Jail for pensioner rapist, 63, branded 'barbaric' by judge

DEBRA FOX

A PENSIONER who repeatedly raped two schoolgirls more than a decade ago has been jailed for 16 years.

Paul Davey, 63, of Lower Road, Hundon, was found guilty of eight rapes, six sexual assaults and one offence of attempting to procure a miscarriage following a trial at Ipswich Crown Court last month.

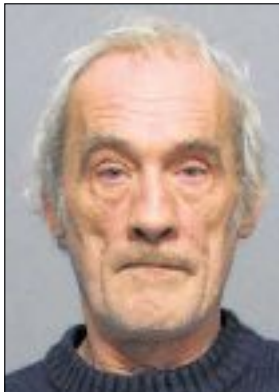

He was also ordered to sign on to the sexual offenders register indefinitely and never contact his victims, who were both under 16 at the time, again.

Mr Recorder Richard Atcheley branded Davey "barbaric" during his sentencing on Friday, July 5.

He said: "You are abusive, manipulative and predatory and you caused untold physical, emotional and mental damage to these two young women."

"This was a gross abuse of trust. It was calculating, lengthy and sustained programme of rape and sexual abuse."

During the course of Davey's

told how Davey handed the girl a bottle of gin and told her to abort the baby.

The victim later had an abortion where scientific tests showed that Davey was the father.

Miss Karmy-Jones said that Davey had purposely targeted the two young girls because they were vulnerable.

He groomed and manipulated them so he could engage in sexual activity with the pair.

One of the victims reported the pensioner to the police in 2011. The second victim came forward a year later.

Davey denied the offences throughout the court proceedings saying that the girls had worked together to mastermind allegations against him.

trial, the jury were told how the 63-year-old raped the girls at an address in Sudbury and had taken pictures of them wearing their underwear and a wedding dress.

Davey also got one of the girls pregnant, and then attempted to force her to have a miscarriage.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Dog bites man's finger off
A MAN was taken to hospital after a dog bit off the end of his finger.
The victim was reportedly trying to separate two dogs who were fighting outside his house on Bloomsfield Road, Haverhill.
When he intervened, one of the dogs, described as a Staffordshire Bull Terrier, bit the top 1cm off one of his fingers.
The incident happened on Friday, July 5, at around 2.20pm.
The owner of the offending dog is going to be spoken to under police caution.

Alcohol is priority point
SUFFOLK's Police and Crime Commissioner will focus his attention on tackling alcohol misuse this month.
Tim Passmore has decided to highlight one issue of public concern each month as one of his Passmore Priorities and has awarded £200,000 to the county's Drug and Alcohol team to help combat the problem.
He said: "Speaking to people across the county it has been quite shocking to realise just how much crime and anti-social behaviour is alcohol fuelled. That's why, throughout July I will be focusing my attention on the significant issue of alcohol misuse."
"My main objective as PCC is to make Suffolk a safer place in which to live, work, travel and invest and I see that focusing on alcohol issues will help alleviate a lot of the crime and anti-social behaviour across Suffolk."
To gauge the impact of alcohol on crime in the county, from July 1 all detainees brought will complete a survey aimed at understanding to what extent alcohol was involved in alleged offences.

Police go tweet tweet as new way to keep in touch

DEBRA FOX

HAVERHILL police have stepped up their relationship with the local community by joining Twitter.

The force went live on the social networking site on July 4 alongside the St Edmundsbury team.

They have become the fourth and fifth local areas in Suffolk to join in with providing regular updates to their residents.

Lowestoft Police, Forest Heath Police and Mid Suffolk Police have all launched their own accounts previously and each boasts hundreds of followers.

Local Policing Commander for Haverhill and St Edmundsbury Rural South Inspector Peter Ferrie thinks this new method of communication will help to improve relationships between residents and their local policing team.

He said: "It will provide us with another means of engaging with our communities and will enable us to keep people far better informed about how their local police are helping them and spending time concentrating on issues that are important to them."

It is hoped that the account, which has 64 followers after only being online for a week, will provide the public with a better idea of what their local police force go through on a day to day basis, as well as the kind of work they are always doing in the community.

It is also seen as a way to encourage younger people to get involved with the force's work.

Inspector Ferrie said: "I also hope it will encourage more young people to communicate with us, as they are a group that perhaps do not engage with officers as much as we would like them to."

"We look forward to receiving lots of tweets and information from the people of Haverhill and St Edmundsbury Rural South."

Inspector Ferrie also said that Twitter is going to be a two-way street - allowing the police to get quick and up to date help from the public as well as keeping local residents in the know.

He said: "I'm all in favour of anything that helps us build better contacts with the people we serve in Haverhill and Clare."

He said Twitter should not be used as a way to report a crime, and people should remember to use 101 to speak to a local officer or call 999 in an emergency.

Digging up a storm in village

A FORMER Linton Village College pupil is returning to his home village for an archaeological dig.

Mathew Morris, site director for the recent excavations in Leicester where the remains of Richard III were discovered, is coming to West Wickham this Saturday and Sunday, July 13 and 14, to excavate 19 archaeological test pits in gardens throughout the village.

Mathew is only one of nearly 100 volunteers taking part and determined to find evidence of West Wickham's medieval origins.

The dig is being lead by three Cambridge University archaeologists - Carenza Lewis, Alex Pryor and Britt Baillie from the Cambridge Community Heritage Team.

The project was organised by West Wickham & District Local History Club and is funded by a Heritage Lottery Fund All Our Stories grant.

Highpoint to make a change

HIGHPOINT prison is set to become one of the 70 proposed new resettlement jails.

The prison, in Stradishall, Haverhill, will join Peterborough and Bedford prisons in providing further rehabilitation for criminals.

These jails are aimed at cutting re-offending by providing rehab services inside prison walls as opposed to starting the process out in the community.

The plans, announced by the Ministry of Justice last week, detailed that offenders will be moved to a prison near to where they live in the final months of their sentence.

Criminals who received 12 months or less in prison will spend their whole jail term in a resettlement facility.

The proposed scheme currently only applies to men, and a different plan for female prisoners will be revealed later this year.

Little chefs bring home the bacon

DEBRA FOX

BUDDING cooks were pleased as punch to receive a cash reward for coming first in a culinary challenge.

Pupils from Coupals School, on Chalkestone Way, Haverhill, were presented with a cheque for £200 for their skills in a cooking competition.

The group won the Let's Get Cooking East of England Prize for having the most people whipping up a feast in one place.

The children were among 36,000 entrants across East Anglia who signed up to take part in the Big Cookathon, held in March.

The challenge was to cook a chicken or veggie korma from scratch and get as many people involved as possible.

A 300-strong team of pupils, parents and teachers manned their work stations and got down to work on their curry.

Employees from Sainsbury's and Tesco, as well as members of Haverhill Rovers Football Club and the fire service joined former Haverhill mayor Pat Hanlon at the school to join in with the fun.

The school's Let's Get Cooking club coordinator, Sandra Linnane, said: "We are so lucky to be involved with Let's Get Cooking."

"It has enabled us not only to learn more about food hygiene, cooking skills and healthy eating, but it also encourages club members to share what they have learnt in school by taking home recipes and cooking at home."

The cheque was presented at a school assembly on Friday, July 5, by Annabel O'Toole, regional manager from Let's Get Cooking.

The assembly came just days after the Year 5 students took a class trip to Deja Vu cafe in Queen Street to find out how the kitchen works.

Final countdown to have your say on Vision 2031 plans

A SERIES of consultation events held countywide for the Vision 2031 plans are starting on Saturday.

The sessions are starting off in Bury St Edmunds on Saturday, July 13 at 10.30am and ending in Haverhill on July 20 at 10am.

Local plans have been created for Haverhill, Bury St Edmunds and the surrounding rural areas, which set out developments for the areas.

Haverhill's vision, created by St Edmundsbury Borough Council, seeks to identify exactly how the town will grow over the next two decades and how the demands that come with this expansion can be met.

This final consultation period lasts until August 9. Visit the Haverhill drop in session at the town's library meeting room on July 20 from 10am until 3.30pm.

Scandal was just a damp squib

DR Rupert Read, Green Party candidate in the East of England for the European elections Norwich, said in the News (July 1): "UKIP voters take note."

In over 240 words he waded into Nigel Farage about having an off-shore trust fund in the Isle of Man, saying: "Will the stalwart East Anglians who voted for UKIP at the local elections last month be able to turn a blind eye to the charismatic Nigel Farage setting up a trust fund to hide his money?"

Well, Nigel said, he never had any money in it anyway, so didn't avoid paying tax on it.

The good doctor concludes: "Move over Farage with this scandal: your reputation is blown and your honeymoon over."

Wow, some scandal. So, what law did Farage break, and what lives did he put at risk?

It was unlike the recent admissions of one Ed Balls, Shadow Chancellor, who has just been fined £350 and three penalty points for jumping a red light. Cambridgeshire police take that very, very seriously. Previously, he was caught speeding in West Yorkshire, paid a fine and attended a speed awareness course instead of points.

In 2010 he was caught using his mobile phone whilst driving. I have a very extensive list of real dangerous, careless, irresponsible, reckless individuals, the good and the great, but I won't bore you Rupert.

But the real criminals in my eyes are the futurists, soothsayers, who predict apocalyptic disaster if we don't listen to them and follow them into the wilderness on bikes and sandals, wearing hair shirts for the sake of future generations.

Live for today Rupert. Mathew Ch7 v34 says: "Take no thought for tomorrow, it shall take thought for the things of itself."

Haverhill singers on the big stage

DAY TRIP: Members of the society enjoyed their trip to London and their part in the concert.

MORE than 30 singers from Haverhill Choral Society packed their bags and headed to London to take part in a concert. The group attended one of Britain's Premier Choral Participation Events, conducted by Brian Kay, and held at the iconic Royal Albert Hall. More than 2,000 singers from across the country joined forces with The English Festival Orchestra to perform Verdi's Requiem, as previously performed in 2012 by Haverhill Choral at St Edmundsbury Cathedral, accompanied by Sudbury Choral Society. The ladies of the Haverhill group hit lucky for seats at the front of their voice section, immediately behind the orchestra, and in prime position under the eye of the conductor. The choirs sang as one, and made for an impressive and emotive performance for those involved, and those watching from the sidelines. Haverhill Choral Society starts rehearsals on September 9, at 7.30pm, at Samuel Ward Academy.

It wasn't truly cross-party

JAMES Wharton MP's EU Referendum Bill came before Parliament on Friday, July 5.

In her letter, Vicky Ford MEP commented that we need to change our EU relationship and recommended that readers support the Conservative led campaign – Let Britain Decide (News, June 28).

The website states that "This isn't a Conservative campaign – it's for everyone. . ."

There are in fact various campaigns that are truly cross-party such as www.peoplespledge.org which I support.

Why should we pay?

SO after all the financial debate, we are at last going to get the long-awaited improvements to the A14?

But with all the money already being taken out of the pockets of the UK road users, why do the politicians expect us to put up with having to pay a toll?

If they already have a shortage of funds then make it up out of the foreign aid hand outs! Charity starts at home!

At the meeting on 25th June, at The Theatre Royal Bury St Edmunds, Lyn Whitehead gave us a stimulating history guide of the Theatre Royal, opened in the Regency period by architect and proprietor, William Wilkins on 11 October 1819.

Wilkins had travelled in Europe and brought back ideas put into practice with the classical designs of The National Gallery and Cambridge colleges.

For the Bury theatre his design incorporated a Grecian amphitheatre feature of a "sweet spot" on stage where even the dropping of the proverbial pin would be heard in all parts of the auditorium.

As proprietor, Wilkins also employed a small company of players known as the Norwich comedians to tour six theatres in East Anglia.

The Bury theatre opened for the Great Fair in October and November and enjoyed good audience figures, more so with the arrival of rail travel to the area, until 1843 when the Norwich comedians disbanded.

After many years of decline, the premiere, in 1892, of Brandon Thomas's "Charlie's Aunt", starring actor W S Penley provided a revival of interest, with a subsequent record of 1436 performances. In the 1920's, silent films and talkies upstaged live theatre, and brand new cinemas replaced older and often deteriorating theatre buildings.

Theatre Royal just survived under the new ownership of Greene King who for some years used the building as a barrel store. After yet another restoration the National Trust linked up with Greene King in 1975 to promote the theatre as the only example of a working Regency building, and which now is one of the only eight Grade I listed theatres in the country.

Many artifacts were discovered when a detailed reconstruction to Wilkins original design was undertaken in 2005, which are now on show as part of the "Backstage Past" program of tours and performances during the summer of 2013.

Lyn Whitehead is the head of creative learning and is enthusiastic to promote a mixed program of contemporary live entertainment and to restore the unique repertoire of the Georgian period.

The next meeting will be at the Haverhill Arts Centre with a talk by Judy Polkinhorn entitled "Mercy Ships", starting at 10.30am. New members will be very welcome to attend!

SUE RYDER

AFTERNOONS of tea and cakes raised more than £100 for charity.

Two tea party events, held at the Sue Ryder store in Jubilee Walk, Haverhill, raised £162.

Held over June 26 and 27, the parties saw flocks of people come for a refreshing beverage and a fresh cream cake – and have a browse through the shelves while they were there.

Store Manager Janet Green said: "It was a very good turn out and it was well supported over both days."

"We were supported not only in the fundraising, but the retail too."

Volunteer Jenny Bowman made all of the cakes, Glenn and Chris from Chippy's Restaurant, Strassbourg Square, donated the tables and chairs and Charlotte Moss took time to make posters and menus for the days.

Police takes on test purchasing

SUFFOLK police are cracking down on underage drinkers by test purchasing off licences for sales of alcohol and cigarettes.

They propose to patrol known problem areas across the county and ensure that shop keepers are challenging youngsters for the correct ID.

Anyone caught selling alcohol to under 18's can be fined £80 on the spot and licencees could also face prosecution.

If people have information on premises selling alcohol to under 18's this can be reported to Trading Standards anonymously on 08454 04 05 06 or trading.standards@suffolk.gov.uk.

Raising awareness of donations

EVERYONE has been invited to Haverhill's Tesco this week to learn more about organ donation.

The superstore, on Cangle Road, have had an information stand in store all week in honour of National Donation Awareness Week.

The event was organised by Tesco team member Mandy Smith, 46, who received a new kidney in May 2012.

Representatives from Addenbrooke's will be at the store on Saturday, July 13.

How fostering affects families

SUFFOLK County Council have spent the week educating people about Private Fostering during a weeklong event, which runs until July 14.

ON YOUR MARKS: Children at the sports day on June 21.

Sports day gets under way at pre-school

CHILDREN from Stepping Stones pre-school put their best foot forward in a selection of traditional and modern races.

The little ones did their best for parents and friends who came to watch their sports day, on June 21.

They were cheered along from start to finish.

The pre-school, which is based at Coupals Primary School, made full use of the primary's playing field and had the kindness of some Coupals pupils to thank for their help on the day.

The participating children were not too exhausted to enjoy a celebratory picnic in East Town Park afterwards, which was donated by staff.

Gymnasts' joy as council backs bid for new base

A GROUP of young gymnasts were turning somersaults after Haverhill Town Council agreed to back their bid for a new base.

But Haverhill Gymnastics Club's dreams will only come true if they can raise the rest of the £620,000 needed for their new centre.

Haverhill Town Council have pledged £25,000 to the project, providing the club find the rest of the money for the state of the art facility, to be built at Samuel Ward Academy.

The club currently meets at Haverhill Leisure Centre and has 260 members. They also have a waiting list of more pupils eager to join in.

Sport England are to donate £150,000 to the project and Samuel Ward will make their own contribution.

As well as providing the land for the centre, they will support the upkeep of the building.

It is hoped that the new centre will provide between eight and 10 sessions a day, every day, for gymnasts and free runners from pre-school age to adults, including those with disabilities.

The centre will also open its doors to the whole Haverhill community allowing primary and secondary schools across the area to use the facilities too.

Samuel Ward Principal Howard Lay said: "This is an exciting and innovative partnership between Samuel Ward and Haverhill Gymnastics Club which will result in state of the art facilities for young gymnasts. It builds on the huge success of the local club and the outstanding PE educational facilities at Samuel Ward in order to ensure this is sustainable."

"There has been a great deal of rhetoric about the Olympic legacy and this is an attempt to realise that vision."

Chairman, Kevin Woolcott and vice chairman, David Bovis, presented their plans during the full town council meeting on June 25.

BUDGET: Haverhill's Community Budget was announced on June 6 by members of ONE Haverhill.

Community plans to get cash boost

A BUDGET pilot introduced in Haverhill, as well as 11 other locations across the country, is being extended to benefit more than 100 communities.

Communities Minister Don Foster announced on July 9 to pledge £4.3 million of new financial support to allow people to have more of a say in what happens in their community.

Haverhill's Neighbourhood Community Budget was revealed to the people of Haverhill on June 6 and provided exactly what they have been looking for years.

The decision to create a one-stop youth centre and appoint community ambassadors to be the eyes and ears of the streets was popular and though the 11 other chosen places for pilots, which included Ilfracombe, Devon, and Kenton, Newcastle upon Tyne, took very different approaches, the Community Budget scheme has been a successful one overall.

Research conducted by independent board ONE Haverhill identified that many people in the community were happy to help in reporting problems or doing minor repairs such as fixing a broken sign or cutting back shrubbery, and that a main concern for residents was the number of jobs and opportunities available for young people.

The 12 pilots showed the Local Government Association that people were willing to help tailor services to better suit the needs of the neighbourhood – and this roll out is one of the first signs of power being brought back to towns and villages.

Sarah Howard, Vice Chair of ONE Haverhill and member of Suffolk Chamber of Commerce, said: "By bringing business, community and voluntary organisations and the public sector together we are making real progress on what's needed for our town."

Find out more about the public service transformation at www.communitybudgets.org.uk and visit www.onehaverhill.co.uk/community-budget for more on Haverhill's plans.

Pre-school graduation

A GROUP of little stars will celebrate the next step next week with a graduation ceremony.

The youngsters at Stepping Stones pre-school, which runs out of Couplands Primary School, will graduate and prepare for the start of primary school in a special event on Monday evening.

The children will recognise the achievements from pre-school days and celebrate with their friends before September brings a new challenge.

The town's mayor and deputy, Cllr Roger André and Cllr Maureen Byrne have also been invited to join in the fun.

GETTING MUCKY: The children having a whale of a time with the mix.

Good, messy fun in nursery

A NURSERY class full of fun is searching for little ones to fill the remaining places.

The class, run out of Westfield Primary School, Chalkestone Way, Haverhill, is hailed by teacher Tracy Quarrell as a great introduction to full time school.

The Westfield Foundation class is suitable for children born between September 1, 2009 and August 31, 2010 and provides a full range of games and activities to stimulate and educate in preparation for entering primary school.

The Westfield Foundation Team recently took a trip out to the town's recreation ground to showcase some of the fine early years activities on offer.

Children were given the chance to participate in some sticky sessions and get hands on with a mix of cornflour and water to make some shapes and patterns.

Teacher Tracy said: “This kind of activity promotes the children's language, physical development and sense of wonder, preparing the children for school life.”

“It also gave parents a new idea to take away with them, some fun for the summer holidays coming up.”
Ask for an application form at the school office if you're thinking of enrolling your child for September.

Academy hits the mark in Ofsted

LEADERS from the Castle Partnership Academy Trust are celebrating their second successful Ofsted inspection since formation.

Castle Manor Academy received a Good grading following an inspection in June, to join the Good accolade previously handed to Place Farm Primary Academy.

The schools became academies in June of last year, and in only 12 short months have managed to pull themselves up to the second-highest position given by Ofsted.

John Baillie, Chair of the Board of Directors and a previous Parent Governor, has championed the schools' partnership approach, which offers an All Through Education strategy for the children of the town.

He said: “This has been a turbulent time for the young people of Haverhill and the surrounding area.”

“The Governing body took a view early on that we should do what is in the best interest for the town and its young people and so we worked hard to support local schools, who were struggling, and those faced with closure during Schools Organisational Review.”

Working in partnership was a major recommendation of a recent report commissioned by Suffolk Council.

The results appear to be a clear sign that the approach taken by the Castle Partnership is working.

Partnership Principal Madeleine Vigar could not be more pleased with the results of the inspection, which took place on June 19 and 20.

She said that the school has recently undergone a lot of changes including doubling in size, taking on younger year groups and working in line with the Suffolk Schools Organisation Review to support students.

She said: “We welcome this report, which reflects the hard work, effort and pride that staff and students put into life at Castle Manor Academy.”

“Given all these changes and the narrower focus of Ofsted's new approach, we believe this report is a clear confirmation of the progress we have made.”

She continued to say that the school and partners had been working hard to make Castle Manor a place everyone could be proud of.

Acting Head of School, Vanessa Whitcombe agreed, and hailed her students as “exceptional”, praising them for working with staff to make the Castle Manor community a great place to work and learn.

She said: “This year's results are set to be the best yet and I'm looking forward to sharing this success with students and the rest of our Academy.”

Pupils collect their awards at school

CASTLE Manor students celebrated a year of success in a prize giving ceremony attended by a special guest.

Former pupil and Charlton Athletic defender Michael Morrison joined Key Stage 3 and 4 pupils for an evening of refreshments, celebration and musical performances.

The event kicked off with canapes prepared by the students, who have been taking part in a catering project.

They also had coaching at Hotel Du Vin in Cambridge and last week received a master class from Head Chef at Jamie's Italian in Cambridge.

Michael Morrison took a moment to recall his school days in a speech to the class, and encouraged the listeners to follow their dreams.

Amongst the prizes awarded were a range of trophies celebrating students who showed love and exceptional effort in their work.

Angela Fera, Parent and Director of the Castle Partnership Academy Trust, said: "It's humbling to see how proud the student are when they climb the steps to receive their awards.

"The words that teachers shared about the effort our young people put in were very encouraging.

"It's wonderful for ex-students to be giving awards and for us to reflect on how they've used the opportunities at Castle Manor Academy to grow into successful mature adults."

SPECIAL GUEST: Footballer Michael Morrison with Head Boy, and award winner, Gregory Bush.

12 more months for prisoner after row over a beard

A HIGHPOINT prisoner has been jailed for attacking a fellow inmate in a row over facial hair.

Isaf Iqbal, 22, assaulted Arunkumar Vettivel, 26, in December 2011.

Iqbal attacked his victim because he believed the 26-year-old should not have grown a beard because he's not Muslim.

The 22-year-old previously denied the allegation, but he was found guilty by a jury in April this year.

During his evidence, Iqbal said he had no involvement at all in the assault and that Mr Vettivel, who was serving a sentence for conspiracy to defraud, had fabricated accusations.

Mr Recorder Christopher Morgan sentenced Iqbal to 12 months imprisonment, describing the incident as "nasty".

Another serving prisoner, Tyler Matthews, 24, of Ipswich, pleaded guilty to the same charge and was jailed for 54 months.

Iqbal, of Elder Walk, Ilford, was in an adjoining cell to Mr Vettivel at the prison in Stradishal, Haverhill.

The pair had to be moved to different cells by police officers after a previous confrontation.

During Iqbal's trial, the jury were told by Mr Vettivel that he had been in bed in his cell on the morning of the attack.

Iqbal and Matthews came in just before 8am and they assaulted him.

Iqbal was responsible for holding down the 26-year-old's legs while Matthews used a wrist watch as a knuckle duster to inflict cuts on his face and wrists.

After the attack, Mr Vettivel had to have stitches in one wrist, and treatment for cuts to his forehead and other wrist.

The red carpet comes to town

A SPLASH of glamour will be coming to Haverhill tonight as Samuel Ward's Year 11 prom gets under way.

The town's high street will once again play host to a range of weird and wonderful vehicles as they ferry the school's VIPs to a night they will never forget.

Last year saw classic cars, motorbikes and even tractors making their way down the street to deliver their passengers to their moment in the spotlight.

Hours of prepping and preening will pay off as the prom prince and princess are crowned, and the pupils are papped as they party the night away.

Now that exams are out of the way, it's the perfect excuse for students to let their hair down and enjoy their final moments in Year 11.

See the Weekly News next week for prom pictures from the event.

No cars will be allowed onto the Recreation Ground before 8am and the selling will commence at 9am before the day kicks off in true style at 11am. Haverhill's Town Mayor Cllr Roger André will lead a fleet of classic cars to the arena where he will formally open the show and invite the town's youngsters into a fancy dress competition. All pets, posies and perfect cakes wishing to be entered into the dog, flower and cake shows must be signed up between 10am and 11am to be judged later in the day. The baby show will start at 11am. The day's events will be split between three places – a display arena, a song and dance arena and an outside arena. The display arena will play host to a range of sporting activities and races including jui jutsui, karate and sword fighting demonstrations. Visitors can also take part in egg and spoon, wheelbarrow and three legged races. A band stand will be set up on the back of a lorry, which will be parked in the song and dance arena. Musical performances from the Haverhill Silver Band and J&J of Samuel Ward Academy will take place, and group Nice Manors, of Castle Manor, will close the show. There will also be zumba and belly dancing displays. The outside arena will play host to the car boot sale as well as all of the day's traditional shows. Winners will be announced at approximately 4pm. Fiona Pilcher, a florist in the town, has organised the cake and flower shows. She said: "I moved to Haverhill in the 1980s and the Haverhill show used to be fantastic. It was all exciting and I had never seen anything like it before." A number of refreshment stalls will also be set up on the Sunday, and visitors can quench their thirst with a visit to the beer tent or the very special beer bus that will be on site. The Summer Bash promises to be one of the biggest events the town has ever seen, so be sure to pop along and indulge in some summer fun.

the Summer Bash!

From flowers to cakes, and cars to dogs... don't miss the fun at this inaugural summer show!

DEBRA FOX

HAVERHILL's highly anticipated new summer show is now just around the corner.

The Summer Bash will be held on the town's recreation ground on Sunday, July 21.

A whole host of businesses, entertainers and refreshment providers are signed up and ready to go, making this show the biggest and best ever.

Whether you want to try your hand in the cake or flower show, or enter loved ones into the dog or baby show, the day of fun has something to offer to the whole family.

All dogs, flowers and cakes must be entered between 10am and 11am on the day.

The chosen category for the flower show is a posy arrangement suitable for a table of eight people and if you want to have a go at baking, a Victoria Sandwich is the cake of choice.

Both events have been organised by florist Fiona Pilcher, who provides for weddings and events.

She said: "We thought it would be great to have something fun in Haverhill again.

"We wanted to choose something simple for people to enter into the competitions."

The baby show will be held between 11am and 2.30pm. It costs £2 per child to enter and there are four age categories ranging from newborn to under four-years-old.

The first prize is £100 cash and a large canvas portrait of the winning little star.

If traditional fayre is not your bag, you can sit back and indulge in the sights and sounds of the summer, with entertainment provided by acts from Samuel Ward and Castle Manor academics, as well as the Haverhill Silver Band.

The day will open with a parade of classic cars, including an Aston Martin, a Ferrari, a Rolls Royce and a replica of the Only Fools and Horses Car.

Town Mayor Cllr Roger André will lead the charge in Haverhill's very own mean machine – a rebuilt Courier Cadillac – and start the proceedings at 11am.

He will then move on to judge a fancy dress competition – which has no theme so get creative and make the craziest costume you can.

A tug of war will also take place at 1pm, and teams of up to eight people from local businesses are being invited to sign up and take part.

David Doughty, chairman of the show committee told the Weekly News that he wanted to blow all other town events out of the water, and build up the Summer Bash year after year.

He said: "I got fed up with going on holiday and walking into a little village and seeing a fantastic show.

"For the size of Haverhill we could easily knock the socks off others. There is going to be lots going on, and it's almost all from local businesses.

"It's Haverhill businesses and Haverhill talent putting on a show for the people of Haverhill and raising money for Haverhill good causes."

And it's all for a good cause...

ALL the hard work that's going into the first ever Summer Bash is not just for fun.

The shows, snacks and singing are all going towards a good cause and the show committee have chosen a main beneficiary for the proceeds, as well as some secondary organisations, to receive a boost.

Money raised will go towards Lamp H, with cash also going towards The Food Bank, the Scouts and the elderly people of the town.

Chairman of the show committee David Doughty said: "Instead of helping out a charity that has teams which fundraise for them, we wanted to help out local groups who haven't got a lot of support behind them. That way we can make a real difference." The day will also include a raffle with spectacular prizes, including free MOT for life, and each Bash programme will have a lucky draw number.

It's a summer of music

HAVERHILL'S market square will be transformed into a stage for pop royalty next month as a variety of acts bring their songs to the town.

The Mersey Makers will bring the best of Liverpool music with a concert on August 3 featuring tunes from The Beatles, The Searchers and The Mersey Makers.

Tributes to Michael Buble and Tom Jones will also be in the mix. For a full-on pop experience visit the square on August 17 to see Fake That, Only 1 Direction and Girls Alouder bring the noise. Both concerts are free and start at 8pm.

Haverhill Town Council Arts & Leisure Manager Nick Keeble said: "We are looking forward to another busy summer of activities."

For more information and to get a Summer Brochure with details of all the town's sunny activities call the Haverhill Arts Centre on 01440 714140.

You can also visit www.haverhill-tc.gov.uk for more about Town Council events.

THE GIRLS: Girls Alouder will perform in August.

Search is on for a new chairman

ONE Haverhill are seeking nominations for a new chairman.

Current chair Anne Gower has announced she is stepping down in September after the successful launch of the town's community budget.

Anne, who represents Suffolk County Council on the ONE Haverhill board, has led the project since its formation two years ago.

The appointment of a new

DEBRA FOX

Chairman will be announced later this month.

Anne was chosen to chair the partnership during a two-year transition period leading to the emergence of the government's community budget project.

Haverhill was selected as one of 12 pilot locations across the UK who would give communities more of a say in how money is spent.

Plans were introduced to open a centre for youth activities in Haverhill, as well as recruiting community ambassadors to be the eyes and ears for problems on the streets when the budget was revealed to the town on June 6.

Anne said: "It is now time to hand over the role of Chair as ONE Haverhill enters a new phase of its development."

Extremes that will leave you feeling fabulous

FOR Julia Mitchell, who runs Extremes with her daughter Sarah Mitchell, being women in the field of work has never felt like a disadvantage. "We have just worked on the business 24-7", she explained, "and we've not experienced any discrimination."

Now in its tenth year, Extremes all started from Julia's vision of establishing a hair and beauty salon that was friendly and welcoming. Originally specialising in sunbeds – still a very popular treatment on offer – they quickly went on to find some of the best hairdressers and beauticians in the trade, offering them premises to carry out their treatments under one roof.

Next, Extremes branched out into retail, with a lovely range of clothes and handbags, for those seeking to round off their new look.

And it's not just, or even mainly, a salon for women. Because of their relaxed and friendly atmosphere, Extremes get almost as many male as female clients, whether they're just popping in to top up a tan, or even going for more adventurous treatments like waxing and manicures.

With the forthcoming addition of a range of aesthetic injectable treatments offered in partnership with Skin Deep Medical, coming soon to the salon too, it seems like Extremes, like Julie and Sarah, and their colleagues, are flourishing: beautifully.

Visit Extremes at 4 Camps Road, Haverhill, CB9 9HB, telephone (01440) 709900 or visit www.extremesaccessories.co.uk.

Business now on course for a feminine future

FIRST Lady of Football Karren Brady is chief executive of Birmingham City, vice chair of West Ham, a board member of Arcadia and, of course, a judge on TV's The Apprentice.

Along with lower profile but equally successful figures like Dame Marjorie Scardino of Pearson's (the first female executive of a FTSE 100 company in 1997), Angela Ahrendts of Burberry's, and Tesco Direct and tesco.com chief executive Laura Wade-Gery, Britain's women are breaking through the glass ceiling and increasingly making a name for themselves in the competitive world of business.

Thanks in part to the growing flexibility of the 21st century employment market, as well as changing attitudes and aspirations, women are flourishing, whether in small companies that they are setting up by themselves, or by rising through the ranks of some of the country's largest (and most successful) organisations.

Although recent figures still point to a significant gender gap in positions at the very top of the business world, there is no doubt that the late 20th and early 21st centuries have seen a welcome influx of women into the business world, helped by legislation, the changing shape of family life and society's (improving) attitudes.

With the vast and developing array of business skills, acumen, dedication and inspiration women can apply to founding, running or working with a business, it is probably fair to say that the future of business is looking distinctly female.

Some of the treatments on offer at Serenity are nails trimmed, corns removed, treatment for ingrown toe nails, callus reduction, verruca treatment, Orthotics and dry & cracked skin. How Jennifer's firm delivers

ADDING THE PERSONAL TOUCH: Jennifer Bradnam of Travel Counsellors.

WHEN Jennifer Bradnam's young children started school nearly 10 years ago, she thought she would be able to resume her successful career with a high street travel agents.

In practice, though, despite having found a childminder that she described as "brilliant" to cover school holidays and those difficult pre- and post-school hours, the Kedington mum soon began to think that returning to work might have been "the worst mistake I'd made".

Fortunately for Jennifer, her family, and her large collection of happy customers, she found a solution by taking on a franchise with Travel Counsellors; and has never looked back. Jennifer explained: "Working from home gives me the perfect work/life balance. It's my own business, I own the franchise, but I also have all the technical and admin support from head office that I need."

She continued: "I own it, I run it, I sell what I want to sell, I work with my customers individually. It gave me total flexibility, and the ability to still make a successful business."

Turning over nearly £800,000 of sales last year, and with this year looking to be on track as her best yet, Jennifer is clearly doing things right. The majority of her business now comes from referrals from happy clients that she has helped to find, plan and book their perfect holidays. The personal touch is, as Jennifer says, "very very important", so much so that Travel Counsellors' strapline states: "With us, it's personal". She will always spend time talking to a prospective client to really get to know them, so that she understands what will make their ideal holiday – whether that's a week or two in the Med, or a round the world trip.

Having travelled the world herself, with an enviable list of countries visited, from Australia to South Africa, America, Hong Kong, Bali, Indonesia and Dubai, Jennifer is confident that, as she puts it, "Due to the way Travel Counsellors works, I can help with arrange any itinerary to pretty much any destination around the world no matter how tricky it may appear. What also helps is that I've been to quite a number of destinations myself, either on holidays or through educational trips provided through Travel Counsellors."

This level of experience was useful recently, when she helped one of her clients arrange a trip which included The Maldives, India, Australia, Fiji and America. Jennifer's service includes every single tiny aspect of a trip such as taxis, transfers, airport loungers etc. She can even arrange excursions. She says her responsibilities begin the moment her client makes the enquiry and ends when they walk through their own front door at the end of their trip. So if anything goes wrong in between Jennifer is on hand, day or night. This service is all included and doesn't cost any extra.

It's this sort of attention to detail which has helped Determination is the key to success.

Elaine Grubb left school at 15 with a determination to make a success of her life, and without her dedication, loyalty, drive and focus CXG would not exist. Elaine's hard work is demonstrated by the number of hours she spent working at the business during its embryonic stage which established the company and led to the Estate Agency and Lettings company we are all so familiar with. Elaine was named Property Manager of the Year 2011 and NLA Letting Agent Property Woman of the Year 2012. Judges said she was an "innovative and inspiring winner" and helped develop a thriving business.

The Estate Agency has built a good reputation in the town offering vendors what CXG believe are competitive fees, together with high levels of customer service achieving sales at market value and often within 4 weeks of the property being offered for sale.

As well as helping build a successful property business, Elaine has become a leading member of her local business community, and has also met political figures such as Mark Prisk, the Housing Minister, Chancellor of the Exchequer George Osborne, and Home Secretary Theresa May.

Elaine has worked for the CXG Group for 14 years and is proud of the 6 awards the company has achieved over the last 3 years, including the recent prestigious Times Gold Award. She says the business is fast paced and hard work but also very rewarding. CXG believe Customer Service is the key and Elaine works tirelessly to ensure this is at the heart of the ethos of the company.

HAPPY FAMILY: Clive and Lindsay Sandhurst with Bryony, Imogen and Eliza.

We are so our three

GIGGLING infectiously as they run hand-in-hand across the lush lawns of Bourn Hall, twins Bryony and Imogen Sandhurst look like your typical boisterous 4-year-olds. But the carefree sisters, dressed in their prettiest frocks for the occasion, are really rather special.

Toddling yards behind them, desperate to join in the fun, is their sister Eliza, who is three years younger. Remarkably, despite the age difference, the siblings are technically triplets, their embryos fertilised at the same time at Bourn Hall Clinic.

Looking on, parents Clive and Lindsay are rightly proud of their precious brood, having been to the brink of despair and back on their journey for their much longed-for family. "We always wanted children and started trying soon after we married, which was 10 years ago now," says Lindsay, 39.

After two years of trying for children without success, the Haslingfield couple, who met while working in software design at Siemens in Cambridge, were referred to hospital for tests, where Lindsay had a laparoscopy to identify any problems. "This showed I had a dermoid cyst on one of my ovaries," she recalls. "The doctor explained it was unlikely to be affecting my fertility and as it was not a threat to my health, there was no point surgically removing it at that time."

Another referral followed, this time to the fertility clinic at The Rosie Hospital in Cambridge, and the couple were put on the IVF waiting list. In the meantime, Lindsay was given the drug Clomid to induce ovulation and boost her fertility. However, the side effects soon became debilitating. "After two months the headaches were

Thanks to the IVF experts at Bourn Hall, the world's first 'test tube' baby Louise Brown celebrates her 35th birthday this month. unbearable, so I couldn't see this being the right option for us. I said to Clive that we should give Bourn Hall a call and see what they could do."

It was July 2006 when the couple had their first consultation at the clinic, which was founded back in 1980 by the pioneers of IVF – Patrick Steptoe and Professor Robert Edwards – famously responsible for the birth of the first 'test tube' baby Louise Brown.

Fortunately, the specialists were able to pinpoint the Sandhursts' fertility problem. A semen analysis revealed that Clive, 50, had a high number of antibodies in his sperm, causing them to clump together or 'agglutinate', reducing the chance of conception. This is usually caused when the blood-testis barrier is breached, in Clive's case most likely through a cricketing accident. Once the barrier has been broken, it means the immune system can gain access to the sperm and form antibodies, attaching to the sperm and impairing its mobility. "It was good to know what the problem was and that there was a way forward, because the NHS tests had come back normal," says Clive. "It didn't really matter who the problem lay with as we knew IVF would move things forward for us."

The Sandhursts' first cycle of IVF yielded 11 eggs, of which five successfully fertilised. Two of the embryos were transferred to Lindsay's womb and three were frozen. Then came the agonising wait.

Fortunately for the Sandhursts there was good news. "At the seven-week scan there was a heartbeat and we were thrilled," Lindsay recalls with a smile. "It was so exciting to be pregnant."

However, the excitement was short-lived when at the 12-week scan Lindsay and Clive were told their baby no longer had a heartbeat. "We were devastated. The miscarriage was really hard to take, especially as we had already been through the IVF process to get pregnant in the first place," remembers Lindsay. "It was especially hard because we were quite a way along and I hadn't had any symptoms of miscarriage."

The couple went through a grieving process and gave themselves time to recover from the tragedy. Aware it could affect the number of eggs collected in future rounds of IVF, Lindsay had the dermoid cyst removed from her ovary in January 2007.

"We gave ourselves time to recover and we bought a puppy," Lindsay smiles. "Belle!" Imogen and Bryony almost sing in unison. "She's a golden cocker spaniel and is lovely, so that diverted our attention for a bit. She was very good, very therapeutic."

By the summer of 2007, the couple felt ready to start again, using the embryos that had been frozen, but sadly, after embryo transfer, Lindsay didn't fall pregnant.

Though bruised by the setback, the couple were determined not to give up on their dream of having a family, so in November returned to Bourn for a fresh cycle of IVF. This time it produced 19 eggs, seven of which were successfully fertilised. Two embryos were transferred and in January 2008, they had the best belated Christmas present – news Lindsay was pregnant with twins.

"It was a great present, although I admit I was very nervous throughout my pregnancy because of the previous miscarriage and then the additional complication of twins. We didn't want to count our chickens, and there wasn't that much excitement until the end," says Lindsay.

"We didn't want to take anything for granted," adds Clive. "I think unfortunately if you've never had problems people just assume you can get pregnant and that's the end of it, whereas actually anything can go wrong at any stage and the whole process is so fragile."

Though she developed gestational diabetes towards the end of her pregnancy, so had to stick to a special diet and inject insulin, Lindsay went on to deliver her gorgeous healthy girls Bryony and Imogen by Caesarean section on September 4, 2008.

Recalling the magical moment when she held her beloved babies for the first time reduces Lindsay to tears. After years of disappointment and heartache, it seemed a miracle the girls were finally here. "It was overwhelming, it really was," she says, fighting back the emotion as she rocks Eliza on her knee. "I just couldn't believe it. Obviously your hormones kick in and that makes it doubly worse as you're constantly crying in your bed; the nurses would come up and ask if I was alright, but I was just crying with happiness."

The twins are non-identical; Imogen is fair and blue-eyed like her mum and Bryony is dark and brown-eyed like her dad, who is Anglo-Indian. "When they've got their swimming caps on it's pretty tough to tell them apart as facially, they're so similar," says Clive.

Though happy with their miracle girls, Lindsay and Clive still had five frozen embryos at the clinic, so in 2011 decided to give IVF one more go in the hope of producing a little brother or sister for the twins. "It's very hard not to think of them as babies," explains Clive. "We both decided there was no way we could let them perish, because you can't keep them frozen forever."

"We'd been through a tough time because I'd lost my mum when the twins were only 18 months old and both Clive's parents had passed away, so it felt sad they weren't here to enjoy them," says Lindsay. "We felt extremely lucky and blessed to have the twins, but thought if it was meant to be, it was meant to be."

Only two embryos survived the thaw, but one developed enough to be transferred and Lindsay fell pregnant with Eliza, who came into the world on November 23, 2011. "I just felt so lucky to be able to experience a single pregnancy and to be able to have Eliza naturally as well," beams Lindsay.

Watching the lively sisters interact with each other and vie for their parents' attention, it's clear the Sandhurst family is now complete – and Lindsay and Clive could not be happier. "We feel so incredibly lucky. Eliza is just wonderful and the twins adore her; they love her to bits."

Back at Bourn to see the specialists who made their dream family a reality, the parents know there are no words that can ever really express their gratitude for what the fertility experts and embryologists have done for them.

"I can't thank them enough; we're just so lucky they are pioneers in the research they do," says Lindsay. "My sister-in-law conceived her daughter at Bourn Hall Clinic too, so she had said we would be well looked after."

"It's hard to put into words how blessed we feel, every day, to have our gorgeous girls, and we sometimes feel we have been too lucky when we think about all the people still striving to have a family."

The last word however, is taken by beautiful Bryony: "Mummy, I'm hungry, can we go now?" and we all laugh, as we're abruptly brought back to earth.

Join in and race to beat cancer

DEBRA FOX

THE town's slimmers are taking on another challenge and running for cancer.

A national campaign, created by Slimming World and Cancer Research UK, is encouraging members to run and raise awareness for the link between being overweight and developing cancer.

Members of Haverhill's slimming groups, which meet at The Newcroft, Chalkestone Way, will be putting their best foot forward at their own event later this month.

Slimming World Consultant Tania Watson has organised a public race where adults, children and slimmers alike can take part with a distance choice of 2km, 5km or 10km.

Tania says that overweight people are often daunted by the idea of exercise, and that the first steps are always the hardest.

She said: "I wanted to give people a chance, and they can walk it, run it or do whatever they feel comfortable with."

"We try to encourage members to find an exercise they enjoy doing because in the long term it will help their health and weight."

Tania has been a qualified consultant for two and a half years after taking up the programme to lose weight herself.

She runs the Wednesday sessions and The Newcroft, and teamed up with co-consultant Mel Laing, who runs Tuesday groups, to bring the Race at Your Pace day to fruition.

Tania said: "We work very closely together because what we do is about member support."

"The groups are very friendly and if you join and don't know anybody you will soon make friends."

"That's the good thing about this event - anyone can come along."

For more information about the Newcroft Tuesday and Wednesday Slimming World groups or their Race at Your Place event contact Tania on 07974 565 229 or Mel on 07818 275743.

You can also contact the women to get an entry form or sponsorship forms for the event on July 28, which starts at 10.30am at The Newcroft.

The group runs Tuesday at 9.30am, 5.30pm and 7.30pm, Wednesday at 9.30am, 11.30am, 5.30pm and 7.30pm.

Summer of the Bard

the GUIDE

“CAN one desire too much of a good thing?” No, we’re thinking not, and it looks like the Cambridge Shakespeare Festival (CSF) has a similar idea.

Throughout July and August CSF is performing some of the greatest works of the Bard in some of the most secretive and exclusive University College gardens in the city.

Whether farce, romance or tragedy takes your fancy (or you’d just like to picnic and take a sneaky look at the greenery), you can settle down for a theatrical evening as the sun folds away. Doesn’t it sound romantic? The actors will be trussed up in full period costume and performing with live Elizabethan music to boot.

There are eight plays to choose from (or you can get a season ticket and go along to every single one), and they’ll be performed in the gardens of Robinson, Trinity, Downing, King’s, St John’s and Homerton College.

Until Saturday, July 27 you’ll be able to see the farcical The Comedy of Errors bubbling with slapstick and mishaps at Robinson College; the witty Much Ado About Nothing in which Beatrice and Benedick battle their affections at St John’s; the betrayal-ridden Cymbeline shot through with troubles of the heart at Downing; and of course, Romeo & Juliet, the greatest love story ever written – fact – at King’s.

From Monday, July 29 –

Saturday, August 17, Homerton College gardens will overflow with the magical mysticism of fairy tale A Midsummer Night’s Dream, while the murderous and power-hungry Richard III will lose his temper at St John’s College, and Hamlet will see the ghost of his father at Trinity College.

From Monday, July 29 – Saturday, August 24 the final production, whimsical romantic comedy The Two Gentlemen of Verona, will play out at Robinson College.

Do not miss out – regardless of the weather.

Tickets cost £15, concessions £11 from (01223) 357851 / www.cambridgeshakespeare.com

Sunshine screenings

IT'S tough to think of anything better than a blanket, a picnic and a massive screen projecting the beautiful, bearded face of Ben Affleck against the sky. Or Daniel Craig – I'd happily take that scenario with a suited and booted Daniel Craig too.

The guys at the Cambridge Film Festival clearly had the same dream. For their annual summer series of outdoor screenings (more family day out in the park than Grease-style drive-in, but still, I'm sure you'll be able to find hotdogs and popcorn from somewhere), Argo and Skyfall are already on the bill.

This year you will once again be able to catch films outside at Grantchester Meadows, the Varsity Hotel roof terrace and Jesus Green Lido in Cambridge, but also the Newmarket Memorial Gardens and Childerley Hall in Dry Drayton.

However, we're most excited about a series of three screenings in the grounds of the exclusive and historic Jockey Club Rooms in Newmarket. Usually not open to the public, the Jockey Rooms will be flung open for film fanatics from August 29-30 for Argo, Skyfall and Quartet (tickets are already on sale and cost £12.50 from www.picturehouses.co.uk/cinema/Arts_Picturehouse_Cambridge/).

And then it's just a hop, skip and a month or two until the full, two-week long Cambridge Film Festival in September (19-29).

● Cambridge Film Festival: Outdoor Summer Screenings, various dates, prices and locations throughout July, August and September. Visit www.cambridgefilmfestival.org.uk for more information.

MONSTERS UNIVERSITY certificate U, 1h50m

UNDER the guidance of chief creative officer John Lasseter, Pixar Studios has reigned supreme for 18 years as masters of the computer-animated fable.

Toy Story, Finding Nemo and The Incredibles affirmed animation as a serious art form capable of exceeding live action blockbusters at the box office while Up and Toy Story 3 were both nominated as Best Picture and Best Animated Feature at successive Academy Awards.

In recent years Pixar has lacked some of its trademark innovation, returning to past glories for inspiration including a lack lustre sequel to Cars and the forthcoming Finding Dory.

Monsters University continues that trend, conjuring a back story to the enduring friendship of Mike Wazowski (voiced by Billy Crystal) and James P Sullivan – aka Sulley (voiced by John Goodman) – from Monsters, Inc.

In this colourful and fast-paced prequel, director Dan Scanlon harks back to Mike's childhood when the six-year-old ignites his desire to become a scarer.

Many years later, Mike excitedly heads off to university to realise his dream. There he befriends shy roommate Randall 'Randy' Boggs (Steve Buscemi) and impresses his teachers by regurgitating facts from textbooks.

However, classmate Sulley gets all of the attention and is courted by the Roar Omega Roar fraternity and its dashing president, Johnny Worthington (Nathan Fillion). Eventually, Mike snaps and declares war on Sulley. The rivals' fates rest on an end-of-term exam, which must be passed or Dean Hardscrabble (Helen Mirren) will expel them from the course.

Unperturbed, he joins forces with the misfits from Oozma Kappa fraternity – tentacled mature student Don (Joel Murray), lovably naive Scott Squibbles (Peter Sohn), conjoined siblings Terri (Sean Hayes) and Terry (Dave Foley) and purple-striped extrovert Art (Charlie Day) – to prove that every underdog has his day.

Monsters University boasts the same appealing cocktail of comedy, action and touching friendship as its predecessor, including some lively supporting performances. Dialogue zings and Crystal and Goodman ease back into their roles as if they were putting on a favourite pair of old slippers.

Like previous Pixar releases, the main feature is preceded by a short. In this instance, it's The Blue Umbrella, a delightful six-minute love story which recounts the first flushes of romance between blue and red umbrellas on a rain-lashed city street.

Counting on our butterflies

SHE’S banged the drum for the Gurkhas, she’s the ambassador for an initiative to combat climate change and waste – but most recently, actress and keen gardener Joanna Lumley has turned her attentions to the plight of the humble butterfly.

Backing this year’s Big Butterfly Count, the world’s biggest survey of butterflies organised by Butterfly Conservation and Marks & Spencer, Lumley explains: “I’ve been fascinated by butterflies ever since being brought up in the Far East where they were, like many things there, huge, bright and extraordinary.

“The great heartbreak is to see how few there are today. Looking out on my garden now, and walking up and down it as I do every day, I’m not seeing any. “This huge, scientific survey is actually counting the effect of mankind upon the natural world.” The public is being asked to take 15 minutes to participate in the count, which runs from July 20 to August 11 (prime time for butterfly activity), to help identify trends in species that will aid us in planning how to protect butterflies from extinction, as well as understanding the effect of climate change on wildlife. Butterflies react very quickly to change in their environment which makes them excellent biodiversity indicators. Butterfly declines are an early warning for other wildlife losses. Almost three-quarters of UK butterfly species have decreased in population during the last decade, while the number of UK’s larger moths has crashed in the past 40 years, according to a recent reports by a group of leading conservation organisations. “The predictions are that numbers will be down again this year,” says Butterfly Conservation surveys manager Richard Fox.

“As butterflies had such a bad year last year because of the wet weather, it’s likely that fewer offspring will emerge. “The Small Tortoiseshell has had eight bad years in a row and has declined by 74% since 1976. The weather last year would have been a major contributing factor but there are other things going on. They need suitable habitats to thrive.”

This year’s cold spring should not have affected numbers because cold snaps tend to happen when butterflies are dormant, so the insects simply come out later, he explains. Lumley’s own London garden, with its wild area of meadow planting at the end, should be a haven for butterflies, but she has seen few this year. “That’s quite a good area for butterflies, but I’ve maybe seen three this year,” she explains. She’s nailed a moth overwintering box, featuring a nectar column, onto her pear tree, but so far it remains empty. “Like the bees, suddenly there’s been something catastrophic happening. Something we are doing is wrong. I suspect we have to blame it on our methods of farming, but I think it’s also down to our way of living in our urban environment, getting rid of gardens and putting down decking, paving stones and tarmac, treating our vehicles as more important than our creatures.” Lumley, who is also the M&S sustainability champion, has planted many butterfly-friendly species in her garden. “I love nettles, as do butterflies. We’ve got a tiny cottage in Scotland, on a wild hillside, and we have a meadow garden there. It’s important not to be too tidy in your garden, because butterflies love species that aren’t necessarily the smartest flowers. In London, I have Michaelmas daisies, buddleia, lavender, honesty, dandelions. Butterflies like all of these.” She’ll be doing two butterfly counts - one at her London garden, the other in her Scottish retreat – and hopes that she’ll have more luck during the three-week count than she has so far. The Butterfly Conservation offers the following tips to attract butterflies to your garden: ■ Choose sunny, sheltered spots when planting nectar plants, because butterflies like warmth. ■ Select different plants to attract a wider variety of species. ■ Prolong flowering by deadheading regularly, mulching with organic compost and watering well. ■ Don’t use insecticides and pesticides which kill butterflies and many pollinating insects. ■ Grow plants which will attract butterflies including buddleia, Verbena bonariensis, lavender, perennial wallflower, marjoram, phlox, nasturtium, escallonia, cone flower, aster, sweet rocket, lobelia and herbs including chives, thyme and mint. ■ Information: Big Butterfly Count takes place from July 20 to August 11. Two Counties success

BEAUTIFUL weather and eye-catching surroundings were the perfect recipe for record crowds who attended the annual Two Counties Motor Show and Classic Car Show at the Rowley Mile Racecourse, Newmarket, on Sunday.

Now in its 13th year, the organisers, Cambridge and Newmarket Lions Clubs, followed up their promise by delivering the most successful show to date, with stands overrun and interest at an all-time high.

With up to 20 franchises being represented by local dealers, visitors enjoyed checking out the latest models in a relaxed atmosphere with dealer personnel on hand to offer expert advice. A number of cars were sold on the day and lots of potential sales leads were taken.

One of the stars of the show was the Lexus LFA on the Lancaster

SHOWTIME: The Lexus LFA at the recent Two Counties Motor Show. Right: Errol Bilton, dealer stand sale co-ordinator, presents Stuart Pawsey of ALS Skoda with the 'Best Dealer Stand' award.

Toyota/Lexus stand. Priced in excess of £300,000, it has been described by Jeremy Clarkson as the best car he's ever driven.

The Classic Car Show, organised by Newmarket Lion, Mike Bacon, drew a record number of vehicles from individual owners to Classic Car Club members. The winner of the Best Classic is pictured above.

A 1979 Panther de Ville, one of only 62 built, drew the most admiring looks. Owned by John Deed, the de Ville has a V12 Jaguar engine and in its day was £29,000 more than a Rolls-Royce.

Another highlight of the Classics which drew lots of interest from the crowd was a Funny car, a fibreglass-bodied dragster owned by Andy Raw of AMR Motors. "Unbelievably noisy when being tuned up" was the verdict!

Dealer stand sales co-ordinator, Errol Bilton of Cambridge Lions, said: "Year after year, the two clubs work hard to achieve these successful shows and we thank the many motor dealers, traders, Classic car owners and clubs, charitable organisations, our media partners Cambridge News and Star Radio plus the many volunteers for ensuring that local charities can benefit from the monies raised from these shows. This year our chosen charities are Suffolk Young Carers and Headway, the brain injury association."

■ We would like to apologise to Carrs of Bury St Edmunds who were inadvertently described as being part of the Vindis Group last week.

MORE SPACIOUS: Volkswagen's new Golf Estate.

Mk VII Golf Estate due

THE new Golf Estate has been revealed, boasting around 60 per cent more boot space despite an identical wheelbase.

The luggage area, measured only in the boot itself up to the back seats and load cover, has been boosted from the hatchback's 380 litres to an enormous 605 litres. This Mk VII model signals a big increase from the Mk VI, which had 505 litres at its disposal. With the seats down the maximum load volume is 1,620 litres, up from 1,495 litres in the old Golf Estate.

Also, a payload of around 600kg for all models is equivalent to some small vans. The rear seats can be folded remotely via a release in the boot.

Four petrol engines and three diesels will be offered, starting with a 1.2-litre petrol, culminating in the flagship 2.0-litre TDI with 148bhp.

Trio take captains' honours

DEAN Cornelius, Doreen Darbey and James Iron were the winners of the joint Captains' Day at Haverhill Golf Club. The individual stableford, hosted by club and ladies' captain Gordon and Sheila Price, had categories for men, ladies and juniors. It was Cornelius who won the men's category with 41 points, beating Eamonn Bareham on countback. David Simpkins was third with 40 points. In the ladies event, Darbey scored 34 to finish one ahead of Carol Day, who pipped Theresa Spittle to second on countback. Countback also separated the top two in the juniors' competition, with Iron pipping Daniel Bentley to first place after both scored 38. Ollie Stevenson was third with 36. The event raised just under £1,000 for Diabetes UK. Sheila Price claimed victory in the Midweek Medal with gross 101, nett 70 to cut her handicap by a shot to 30. Sally Price was second on countback from Jackie Condon – whose 89 was the lowest gross score – after both shot nett 72. Condon turned the tables in the Saturday Medal, scoring net 67 to beat Catie Heathfield by three. Gerrie Wheatley was third with 74. Tony Weller fired nett 60 to take Division Two of the Men's Midweek Medal, and the overall win. Kim Ward triumphed in Division One with nett 67 and Graham Hepworth pipped Patrick Bowes to first in Division Three after both scored nett 68. In Haverhill Rovers' annual golf day, Anthony Choat's team were first with 135 points, beating Mick Tokley's team by eight. Jason Lunness' team were third with 124. A record for Blackjacks

STEVE Phillips hit three home runs as Haverhill Blackjacks racked up their record score with a 46-7 drubbing of Essex Redbacks III in British Baseball Federation, A League. Phillips, Seb Schmidt, Matt Schellhaus and Ryan Pflugh set the tone by making it 4-0 in the first inning before a further 12 runs were added in the second with Phillips smashing the first of his home run hat-trick. The runs kept coming before the mercy rule put Essex out of their misery in the seventh inning.

Dadds moves up in world

GARY Dadds has become the latest member of Chalkstones Karate Club to pass the difficult second Dan (ni dan) black belt grading. Dadds trained very hard both at the club and at the Chisai Dojo in Witham to prepare for the exam. As with all black belt exams, he had to demonstrate hundreds of techniques, perform Kata (preset sequence of moves) and fight to pass the exam which took place at the Chisai Dojo in front of Joe Anderson, head of the Toyakwai Karate Association and an eighth Dan black belt. Dadds is pictured right, receiving his certificate from Joe Anderson. The club meets on Tuesdays from 7pm. For more information, visit www.chalkstonekarateclub.co.uk or call instructor Steve Hart on 07747 063981.

Leaders too strong for brave Haverhill

AMIT Gupta's efforts with the bat could not prevent Haverhill losing by 73 runs at home to Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division one pace-setters Frinton.

Joe Woodley (3 for 45) got rid of the hosts' openers early on, but they went on to make 214 for 9, Anthony Phillips also claiming 3 for 67.

In reply, Adam Dellar was on the end of a dubious lbw decision as he went for a duck before Kyle Blanchard followed him to the pavilion after failing to get off the mark.

But Gupta (82) teamed up with Luke Youngs in a stand of 66 for the third wicket before the hosts were all out for 141.

Captain Simon Youngs said "We competed for long periods but in the end they were too good for us."
